The low water rocks of the island of the Mergui archipelago are covered with oysters, large and small. A mon key, probably macaeus cynomolgus which infests these islands, prowls about the shore when the tide is low, opening the rock cyster with a stone, by striking the base of the upper valves until it dis-locates and breaks up. He then extracts the cyster with his finger and thumb, ocensionally putting his mouth straight to the broken shell. On disturbing them generally found that they had selected a stone more apparently for convenience in handling than for its value as a hammer and it was smaller in proportion to what a human being would have selected for a proportionate amount of work. what Makes the Journalist Journalism, like every other profession bas a sliding scale of merit in its members, but lines within this profession are rarely drawn with much sharpness. It is too mutable, promotions are too rapid and descents too sudden, to make it possible to preserve the hard and fast distinctions which btain in other callings. A man comes to the profession of journalism practically unprepared other than in the general education he may have received, and it is impossible to teach any one the calling. It is a thing he must learn for for no general instructions can prepare him for its demands, and a certain unex be lying like a dormant instinct in his nature, or even experience will help him but little. NOTHING HIDDEN

THE MANUFACTURERS OF CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER HAVE FOR MANY YEARS MADE KNOWN TO THE PUBLIC ALL THE INGREDIENTS OF THEIR POWDER.

In these suspicious times it is not enough that manufacturers of food preparations base their claims for patronage on the simple statement that their goods are "absolutely pure." The absolute purity of a poison intensifies the baneful effects of its improper use. The absolute purity of ammonia a drug often used in the manufacture of baking powder and in some of the powders most largely advertised, greatly increases the force of the objection made by the most eminent scientists of our day to the use of ammonia in food. This protest of the medical and chemical professions is due to the fact that ammonia—a product of decomposition when taken into the stomach with our daily meals is exceedingly injurious.

Hence the public should insist upon knowing what all food compounds contain and ALL that they contain. Let the edict go forth that no article intended for use in the preparation of our daily bread shall receive public support unless the manufacturers' formula be published. Then shall we have less imposition practiced upon a confiding public, and as a result less injury to the public health. Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder is made only of strictly pure Grape Cream of Tartar, Bicarbonate of Soda, and a little wheat flour, the latter to preserve the strength of the powder;
